

This transcript was exported on Dec 12, 2019 - view latest version here.

Suzanna Garza: The goal is the client and making sure that we are making the client feel as important as they are. I'm here to provide an administrative role, but if it helps get anybody here to their goal, then I'm doing my job.

Suzanna Garza: I really like that it's a small team. I think that it's very client-driven. For most people it's not a basic, tiny, small lawsuit. It can be detrimental to their life, so I think it's important to have that positive energy and speak with the client one-on-one and maintain that professionalism, and in return, you get a client that's willing to work with you knowing we have the answers that they're looking for.